TESTIMONIALS

What Our Members Say

David Park
Golf Enthusiast
"Best investment I've made for my leisure time. The course is challenging enough to keep me engaged, but the staff always makes me feel welcome regardless of my score. The equipment fitting service helped me find the perfect set of clubs."

James Whitfield
Business Executive
"Golfngv has completely transformed my game. The course is immaculate — every fairway feels like it was designed just for you. The coaching staff is world-class, and the atmosphere is unlike anything I've experienced at any other club."

Sarah Chen

Limited Access to Services
Elderly and mobility-impaired patients face significant challenges in accessing necessary medical services at home.

Lack of Transparency
There is no software system available for searching and evaluating healthcare personnel, which creates high risks when hiring nurses through informal channels.

Our solution

Digital ecosystem of home medical services

An innovative mobile application connects patients with verified nurses, ensuring high-quality home medical services.

Verified database

Qualified nurses with verified credentials and experience.

Secure payments

An escrow system protects financial transactions between patients and nurses.

Rating system

The feedback system allows you to choose specialists with the best reputation.

Integration with clinics

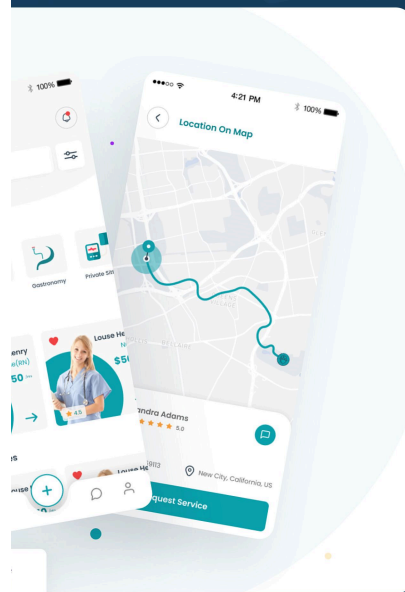

Collaboration with medical institutions for comprehensive patient care.

Emergency support and SOS functions

Quick call for a nurse in a critical situation.

Patient's electronic medical record

Storing history of visits and data for accurate assistance.

Market opportunity

Market opportunity: vast and growing potential

654K+ urban population
Our target audience is the urban population with a higher level of digital literacy.

341M+ population of the country

50-100M+ potential users
The estimated number of people who can use our platform.

Total Addressable Market (TAM)

$1.5-2B per year

with a steady growth of 10-15% annually

Key growth drivers

- The constant ageing of Boston's population
- The growing trend towards personalised medical services
- Post-pandemic changes in consumer habits
- The proliferation of smartphones and the digitalisation of society

Risk management

Management of key risks

Regulatory risks

Active engagement with the Ministry of Health, obtaining all necessary licenses and compliance with legislation in the field of services and personal data protection.

Service quality risks

Strict verification system for medical records, including checks on documents, work experience, and references. Transparent rating system with the ability to respond to complaints.

Competitive strategy of the project

Key advantages of the "Home Nurse"

Narrow specialization

Professional physiotherapy and medical services at home.

Innovative model

Subscription for nurses and commission from patients for using the service.

Market adaptation

Consideration of the specific characteristics and needs of healthcare in Boston.

Regional scaling

Strategic expansion plan into the markets of the USA.

Official integration

Interaction with regulators and certification centres.

Insurance

Nurses' responsibilities towards patients.

Phased development strategy

Emergency response system

Integration of SOS button and action protocols for complications.

Digital patients medical record and Comprehensive telemedicine

Integration into the national electronic healthcare system. Online consultations and home visits by specialist doctors.

Strategic partnerships

Collaboration with pharmacy chains and medical equipment suppliers.

Professional development

Continuous professional development system for nurses based on the platform.

Target audience

Target audience

Elderly people (65+)

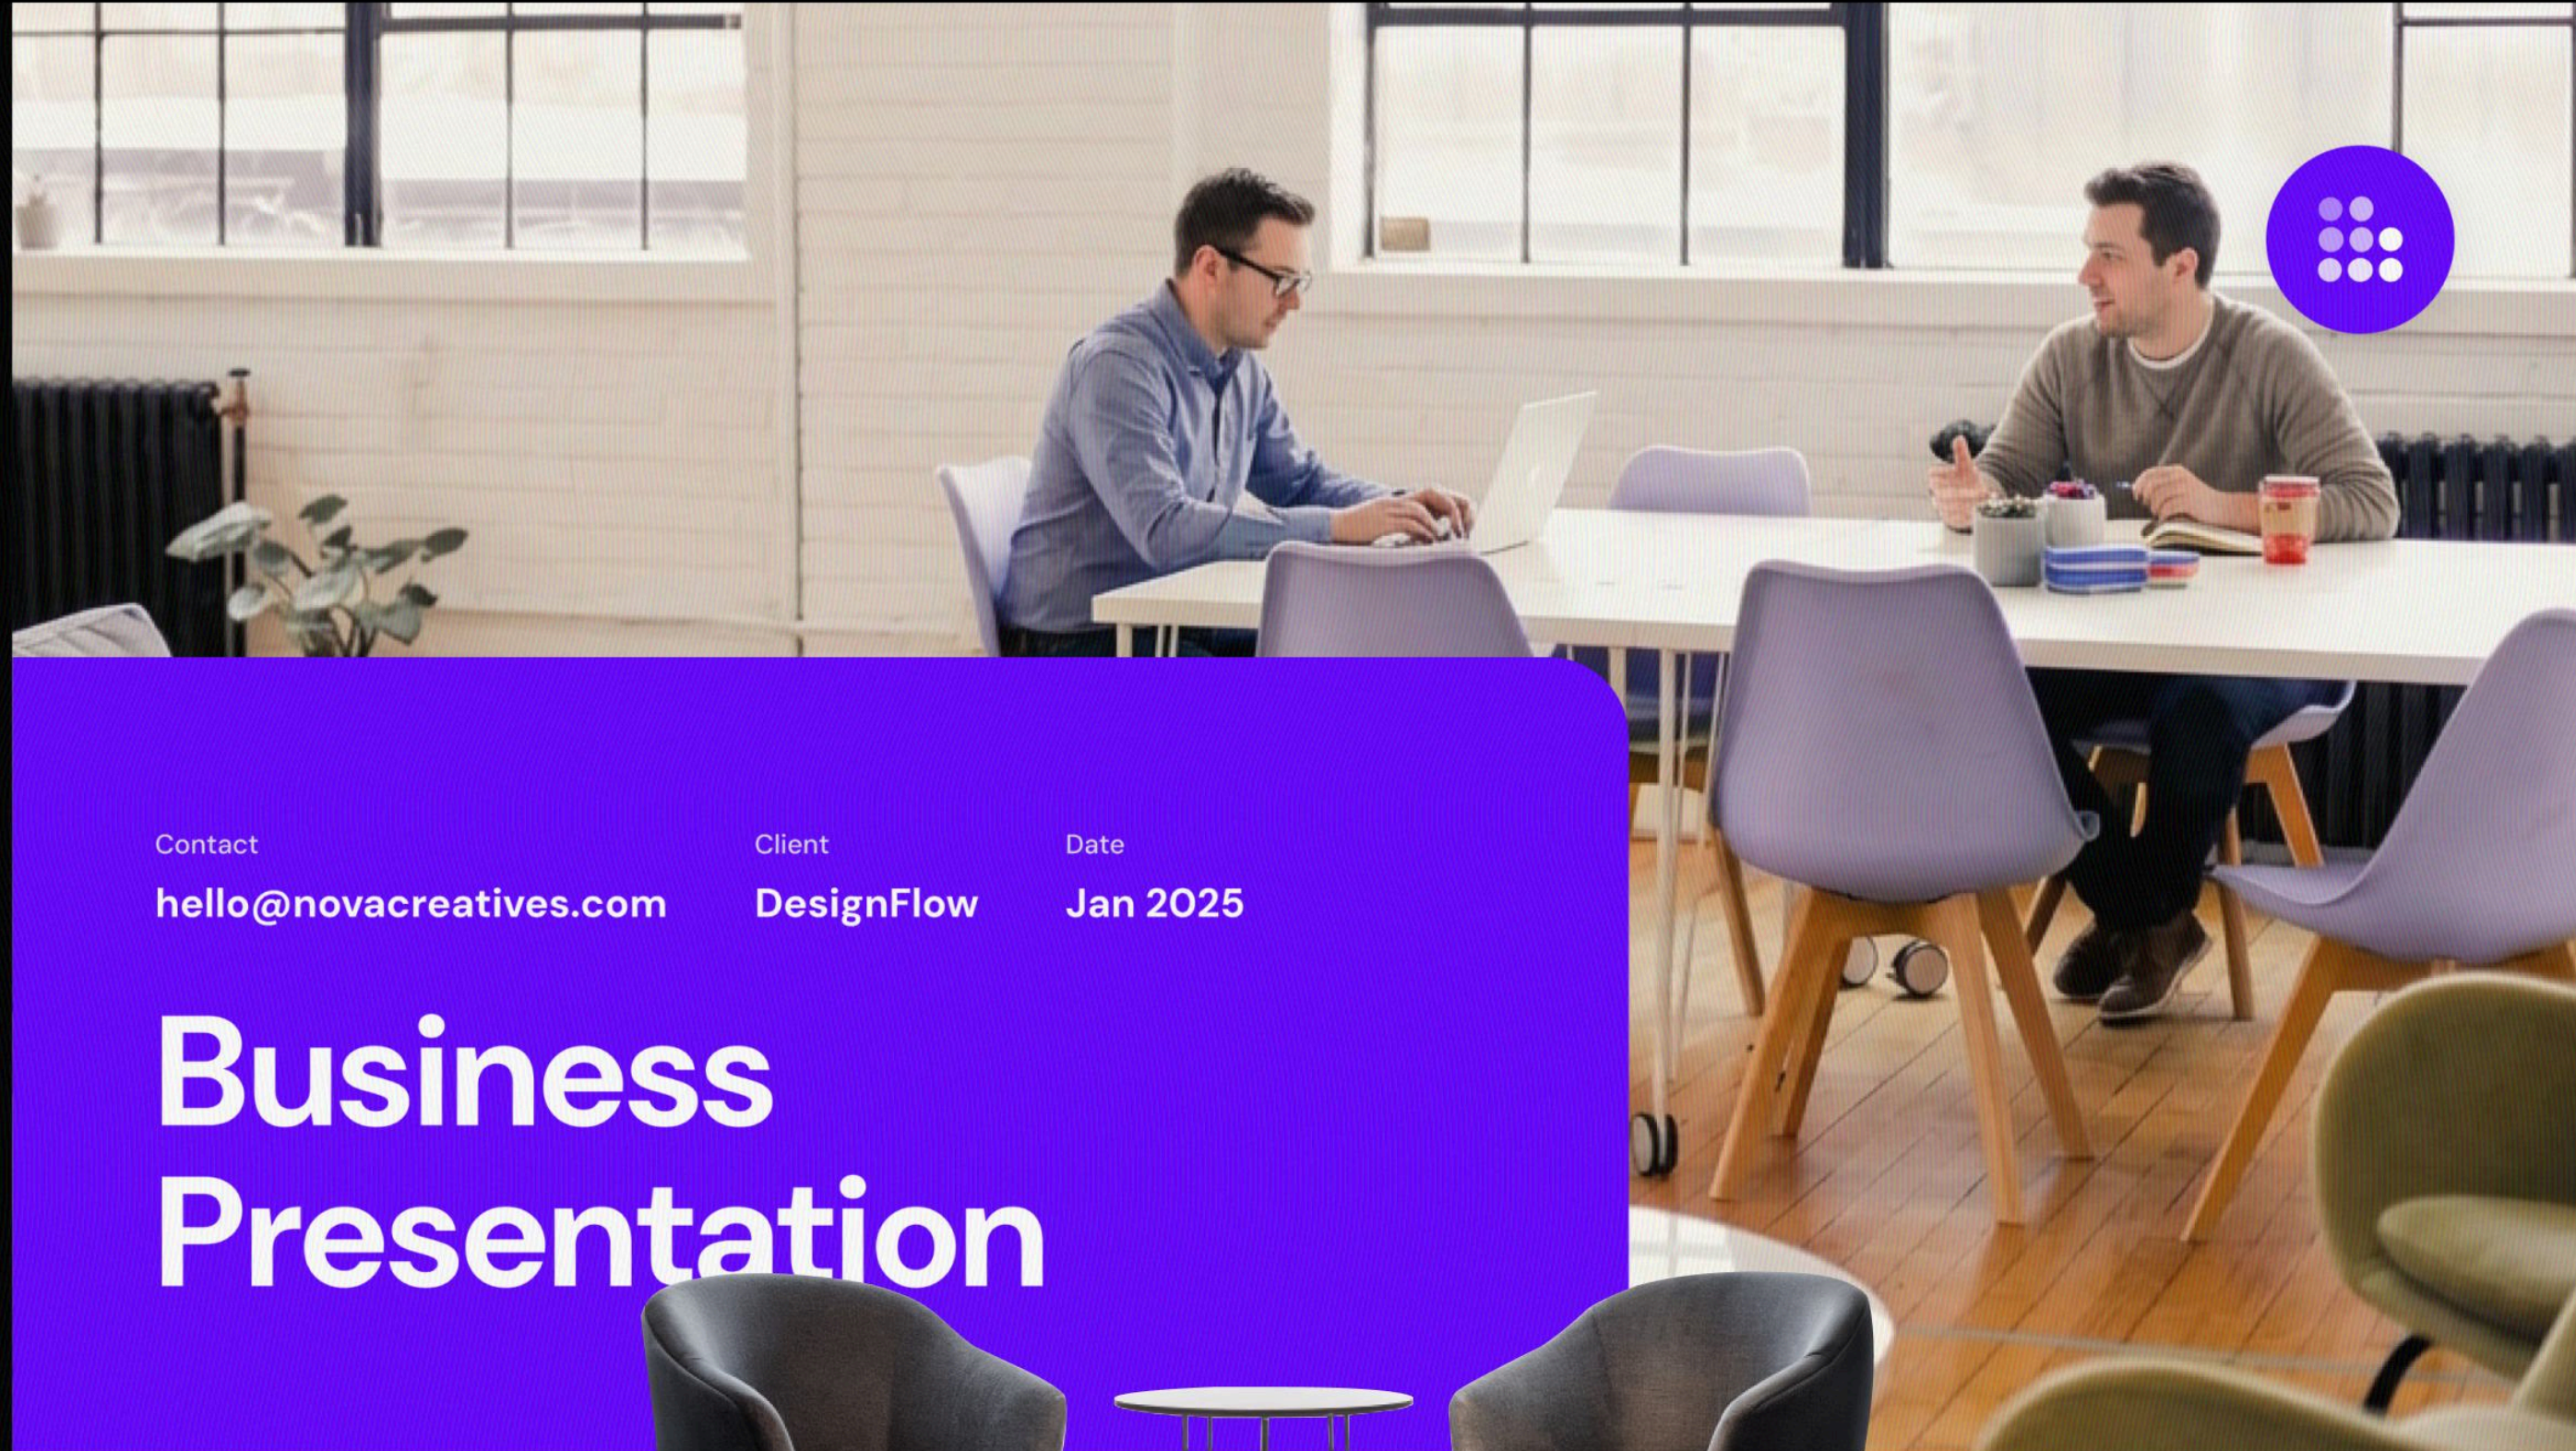

Need regular medical procedures, including injections, blood pressure measurements, and basic care. Appreciate the ability to stay at home.

Working adults (25-55)

Value time-saving and the convenience of receiving quality medical services without the need to visit clinics.
